Chapter 1 by Story Wars

I broke reality.

Chapter 2 by -

With the touch of my icy finger. It shattered into a million tiny specks of glass. It felt like a shower of crystals upon the earth.

Splitting trees, slicing flesh, severing mountains. All in the space of some few seconds.

My reality was broken into a fantasy world...

Yes, my chaotic world became a realm of the imaginary. The impossible. The wanted and dreamed. Every single thing from a fairy tale came to life.

Chapter 3 by -

Within seconds, I was riding through smoky mountains on the back of Smaug. A black raven soared above us, letting out an occasional scream. And before me, I could see the beautiful Elven lands.

Men and women elves were walking through the forest as Smaug let me off in Rivendell.

"Le suilon!" An Elven maid

oods.

She waited for no response, as she lead me up a path and many steps. "A hauta sinomë." And then she left me.

Chapter 4 by abysmalism

Then I was sitting by a slow moving creek, its clear water travelling lazily over the rock bed.

I brought my finger to the crystalline surface, but when I touched it, it became intangible and I began to fall.

I have broken reality.

Chapter 5 by ~Afraser~

I thought this was amazing, every single fantasy...real. But the more I thought about it the more concerned I got. If all the characters are coming, where are the evil ones.

My stomach lurched as in the distance I see a dragon roaring and flapping its ginormous wings that make the earth shake. My instinct is to run, I run for my life. I am almost home when I remember Smaug. I can't leave him.

I start running but slow down as the image of Maleficent the dragon floods my thoughts. Fear seeps into every inch of my body and I am paralysed in fear.

Then I hear it...close.

Chapter 6 by ☆Holly☆

All of a sudden I saw darkness, it covered me. I could still hear the wings of the dragon, beating against the wind.

The darkness faded away and I saw water, lots of water. I realised that I was submerged in water. I could now see the dragon, it was flying towards me at rapid speed.

I was terrified! I didn't know what to do! So, in terror, I closed my eyes, and waited for the hit.

Chapter 7 by purple

The dragon stopped in front of me. I was in the middle of the ocean. I was cold. Very cold. The icy waters seemed to sap my energy. I reached out to the dragon, my only hope, slowly falling out of consciousness.

As soon as I reached the dragon, I was falling.

I have broken Reality.

I woke up in my own bed on a Saturday evening. I checked my watch, 5PM on a summer day. But something wasn't just right.

Chapter 8 by wolfmanhetman

That was until I heard my mon call

MOM:Debbie

ME:(mutters)suka blyad,

MOM:Are you making those Istambul Airport bombing memes again?

ME:no mom I'm in what started out as some generic yet pretentious story that derailed into some dragon hunting/befriending/romance thingy

MOM:Cool, I'm making Mountain Dew And Dorritos Cereal For Dinner, And make sure you bring your Trump $w@g to dinner, Trump will be there to propose to your stepdad's great-grandmother

(Oh God please end my suffering)

ME:Sorry mom, I will be in another few chapters of me breaking reality and shit

MOM:ok, see ya later alligator

ME:k, Bye.

Then I tripped in one of my stepdad's 420,690,000,000 waifu body pillows of all ages, genders (and degrees of gender fluidity of course) and broke reality yet again.

the end
